These bank holidays, it's a problem to decide. Tell you what, Gromit Lad. Let's have a nice hot cup of tea. Kettle should have boiled by now. No cheese, Gromit. Not a bit in the house. Gromit. That's it. Cheese. We'll go somewhere where there's cheese. Now, where were we, places you find cheese? Lancashire, Cheddar, Wednesday Day, Philadelphia and Tesco's. Everybody knows the moon's made of cheese. Everything seems to be under control. 60 seconds to blast off. I locked the doors. No crackers, Gromit. We've forgotten the crackers. Hold on, Gromit, hold on. One for the album. Hello. Oh, nicely done. Oh. Adjust angle of thrust. Steady now. Ten up. Steady. Gently does it. Nice drop of tea to get the tea spots going. Blade. Knife. Cracker. See what you think. Winsley Day. Stilton. I don't know, lad. It's like no cheese I've ever tasted. Let's try another spot. Come on, stupid. Date night robbery. They always make your money, them flipping machines. Come on, Gromit. It's different. Camembert. Where are you off to now? Leave me to carry the basket, won't you? Emergency countdown. Ten seconds and counting. Hold tight, lad. I think of Lancashire hot pot. The fuse! You forgot to light the fuse! Set coordinates for 62 West Wallaby Street.
